

Global Logistics in the Edmonton Region

The Edmonton region is North America's northernmost major metropolitan centre and is an international manufacturing and logistics hub well connected to global markets. It's where air, rail, pipelines, and roadways converge in a Foreign Trade Zone known as Port Alberta.

Air Connectivity

- Edmonton International Airport (YEG)
- No restrictions on operational hours allowing uninterrupted flow of goods.
- Developing Canada's International Cargo Hub (ICH), over 2000+ acres
- First Canadian Airport to receive CEIV Pharma Community Certification

Rail Connectivity

- The Edmonton region is served by Canadian National (CN) Railways and Canadian Pacific Kansas City (CPKC)
- Sixteen rail intermodal and storage facilities in the region operating 7,000 miles of track, connecting the region to eight Canadian provinces, 16 U.S. states, and Mexico

Road Connectivity

- Located along the CANAMEX trade corridor, this series of highways link Canada to the United States and Mexico, representing nearly $4 billion in trade
- Highway networks span the continent and extensive local road networks make it easy to connect to regional businesses

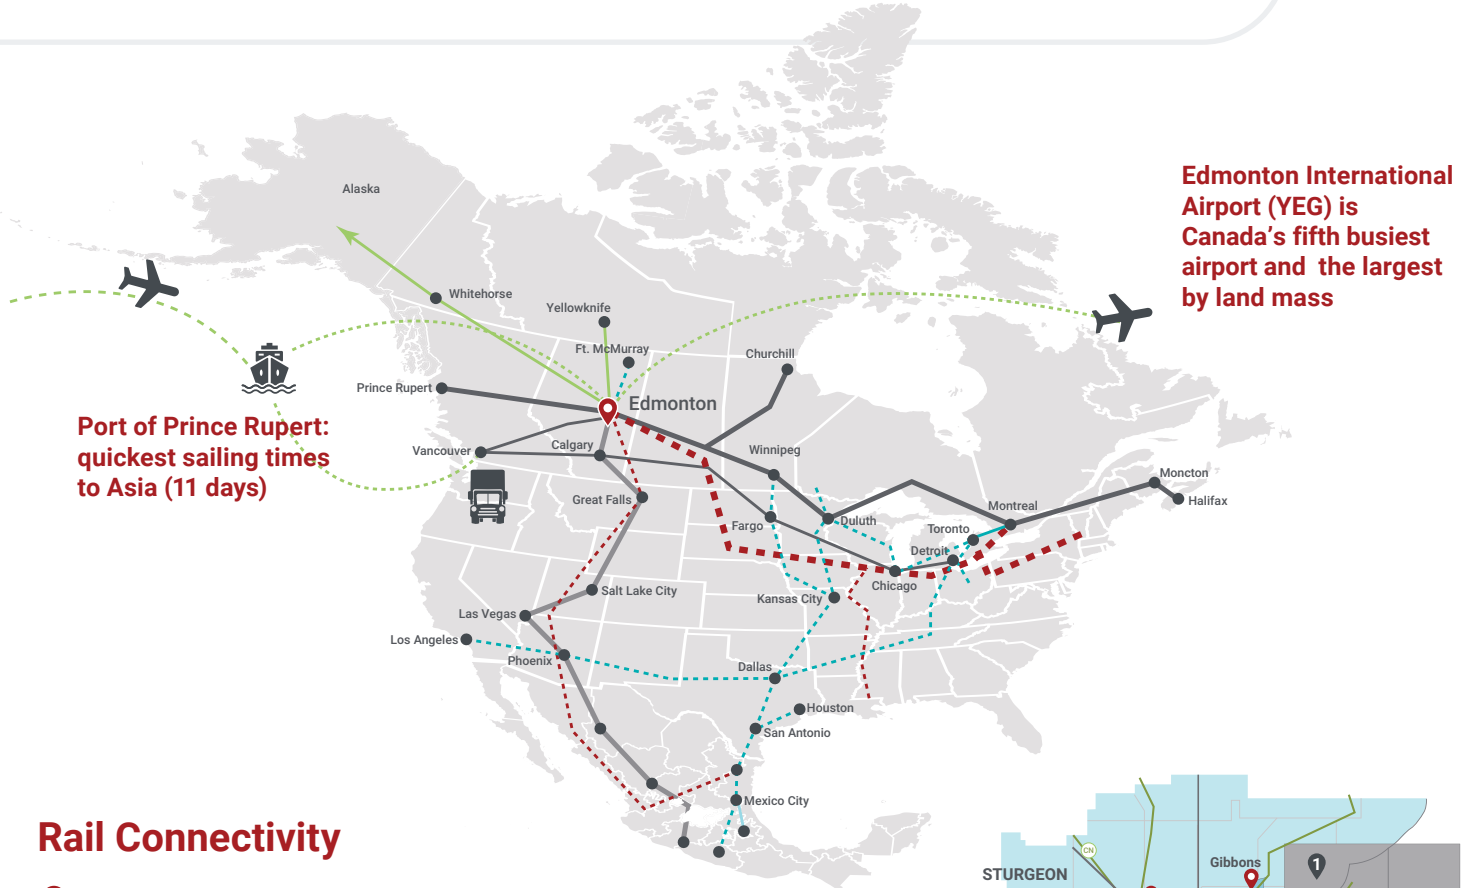

Port Access

- Well connected to Canada's western ports
- Port of Prince Rupert: closest port to Asia
- Port of Vancouver: North America's fastest growing and deepest water port

The Edmonton region is home to a cluster of top companies:

The entire Edmonton region is a Foreign Trade Zone (FTZ) and inland port known as Port Alberta, with access to import-export programs and cash flow tools to help accelerate business growth.
